GEODIS boosts the delivery of 75 Bombardier Transportation trains from India to Australia

After a successful first delivery organized by GEODIS on February 16th, the awarded project linked to the transportation of 75 regional trains from India to Australia shall continue over the next 30 months. The second shipment of six carriages weighting 260 metric tons left Savli (India) on May 3rd and is expected to reach Brisbane (Australia) at the end of the month after a 10'500-km journey.

GEODIS was selected by Bombardier Transportation among 22 Logistics Service Providers to handle the transport involved in the Queensland Government's New Generation Rollingstock (NGR) project. Under the 36-month contract, GEODIS will coordinate various inbound flows to supply Bombardier Transportation production site in Savli. The company is also carrying out sea transportation between India and Australia for the 450 coaches.

"Thanks to GEODIS's rail expertise, and its ability to provide end-to-end service while bringing us complete visibility on our operations, we can entrust this large-scale project to a single service provider," said Antoine Debore, NGR Project Manager in charge of Logistics, for Bombardier Transportation.

Commenting, Jérôme Chadeau, Director, Global Accounts – Industrial at GEODIS, said: «This partnership once again proves the excellence and know-how related to Industrial Projects. We support customer's business growth by offering them "tailored made solutions" ».
